Architecture

The Mark is a 43-storey market residential / mixed-use condominium tower in Vancouver's Yaletown neighbourhood, situated on one of the main corridors into the city's downtown core. The building is located on a challenging site at the intersection of Seymour and Pacific, and boasts 360 degree views out over the city and North Shore mountains. The Mark includes a 10,000 sq ft wellness and activity centre for residents, as well as a 37-space daycare facility, an key community asset in this neighbourhood. Sustainability was an important consideration for the project team, and The Mark has been designed to LEED® Gold equivalent standards.
